

	Say This	To do This	Interrupt	Second	Decided by
1	Point of order	Object to procedure	Yes	No	Chair
2	Point of personal privilege	Complain about noise, weather, things not related to the debate	Yes	No	Chair
3	Point of parliamentary inquiry	request information from the chair	No	No	Chair
4	Point of information	Question speaker through the chair	No	No	Chair
5	Motion to open / close the session	Starting or ending the session	No	Yes	Majority vote
6	Motion to extend the time of the speaker list	Extend time for each speaker in the speaker list	No	Yes	Majority vote
7	Motion to postpone the session	Postpone debate until next session	No	Yes	Majority vote
8	Motion to open a moderated caucus for ____ minutes, in order to discuss _____	Open a limited time debate (moderated)	No	Yes	Majority vote
9	Motion to open a simple caucus for _____ minutes, in order to discuss _____	Open a limited time debate (delegates can talk to each other directly)	No	Yes	Majority Vote
10	Motion to open an extraordinary session of _____ question(s)	It is a session to have more questions to the speaker (frequently after the speaker read his/her position paper)	No	Yes	Majority Vote

benavente tlaxcala model united nations

11	Follow - up	Continue the first question made to the delegate with a second or third one, in order to clarify information	No	No	Chair
12	Permission to make a brief preamble	When a delegate is questioning another delegate through the chair, and he/she needs to explain something before the question	No	No	Chair
13	Right of Reply (written)	If a delegate feels that her/his personal or national integrity has been offended, she/he may send a message to the chair on a Right of Reply.	No	No	The President's/Chairperson's decision whether or not to grant the Right of Reply is final and not open to appeal.
14	Right of Reply (orally)	If a delegate feels that her/his personal or national integrity has been insulted, she/he may rise on a Right of Reply.	A request for a Right of Reply may interrupt a speaker. However, the reply shall not be granted until the conclusion of the speech presently being made. The reply shall be limited to one (1) minute.	No	The President's/Chairperson's decision whether or not to grant the Right of Reply is final and not open to appeal.